“ After High School I went to N. Dakota To Trinity Bible School in Jamestown. Cara Linn was on a cross country drive and came to see me and we went and saw some Buffalo and some sights together. It was my first time being so far away from home and It meant the world to me that she would take the time to stop for a visit. I never got to know her really well but felt she was special and I always felt when she looked at a person she could see into their very soul. The world was better with you Cara Linn.

“Cara Linn Joe was my sister and a best friend. I remember when she took off from Sacramento, CA to finish her college education in Southern CA at Chapman College. After receiving her master’s degree in education, she spent three and a half years as a Peace Corp volunteer in Bolivia. Then she moved back to Sacramento and we became roommates in an apartment with a swimming pool. While we were roommates, she taught school in West Sacramento in a very depressed area.

Ever adventurous, Cara Linn decided she wanted to see other places and started her journey by visiting her companion Peace Corp volunteers throughout the United States. When she was up in the northern states, she decided that was too cold for her. After visiting many states, she ended up in Augusta, GA. She was an active member of First Christian Church in Sacramento and Augusta.

Cara Linn met her husband Harry through a teacher friend at the elementary school where she taught and remained in her beautiful Augusta, GA. She taught for a short time at Payne University when the opportunity arose and ended her career teaching English as a Second Language in elementary school.

Cara Linn made a difference wherever she went. She was devoted to her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, sisters, nieces, nephews, students, many friends, and caregivers. She will be missed.

Cara Linn, a steadfast and courageous friend. From those early days of Peace Corps training in Lincoln, Nebraska, where she showed her true mettle by "passing the drownproofing challenge" a 2 hour float with hands and feet tied--and she, the person who began this PE training not knowing how to swim! Shortly after arriving in Bolivia (during the 1964 revolution) together we dodged fire, running from revolutionaries, or maybe it was counter-revolutionaries. And we had the good fortune to travel for 3 months together (with Marianne (Harrington) Somera) by Tica Bus, train and boat through South and Central America en route home. Then there was the incredible Bolivia Heifer IX reunion in Cochabamba in 2007. So many stories...such adventure and such love. Thank you so much, Cara Linn and the Joe family. She will always have our backs when we need her!

“ I owe my whole 30 years in education to Mrs Joe. I started working with her at GHE in the ESOL department. I knew nothing! She trained me and taught me to explore things like computers, fabric painting, bulletin boards, crafts for the state fair and science projects. She was more than the teacher I worked for...she was a mentor, friend, confidant and when my mother died she stepped right in. She gave me confidence in everything I did. She was so much more than these words I am saying...I will remember her forever.

“ I met Cara Linn at Emily's Consignment Shop of her church, the First Christian Church of Augusta. The day I first stopped by I was crying uncontrollably over the trouble my son was having with drink and drugs. I believe God truly led me to stop at this shop to receive His love and solace through Cara Linn and her fellow worshippers at that church. She and others took me into their arms and showed love and blessed assurance of God's grace. Cara Linn was filled with God's love and poured it out generously on everyone she met. I thank God for the blessing of knowing that wonderful angel on this earth. FAYE FACEY. Evans, GA.

“ Our deepest sympathy for all of the family. We have such fond memories of Cara Linn from First Christian Church and she will be missed here on earth especially by her friend, Billie Jo, who could endlessly talk and tell stories about the 2 of them and all the good times they had together for so, so many years. May you feel the love and comfort of God in this time of sorrow.

So many memories of Cara Linn, a strong and caring women who I knew as a girl in youth group at First Christian in Sacramento. Cara Linn and the development of the Community of the Great Commision conference center, high in the sierra, and planting so many seedlings there after the devastating forest fire, 1961. Following Chapman College was her service in the Peace Corps, in one of the early groups who went to Bolivia. I knew how she was clear in her faith and honest in her relations, her forthright goodness defined who she was. The many, many memories of Cara Linn and of our families run deep.
