“ I was shocked and very saddened to read Carol's obituary in the newspaper. I had last seen her at Dr. Mabe's visitation a couple of years ago. I first met Carol many years ago in Reidsville when I used to babysit for Lynn and Anne. We used to play tennis, and she and her family were strong influences on me--that's how I ended up at Wake Forest. She was a beautiful person, inside and out, and although our paths haven't crossed much in many years, I have always felt her presence and friendship in my life.

“ *Carol, I miss you..I miss talking to you about sports, our love of animals, our families...
We would always find something from the news to discuss, and it helped that we shared the same opinions!
I met Carol years ago, we were hired and went to classes at TDC together...We became friends then and have been all these years...I know that you are with God but I miss you!!!!*

“ I will surely miss Carol. I meet Carol along time ago and we would always talk about the boys and their sports. I would go watch Dillion play baseball and she would ask me about my nephew Jay. I will miss having those personal conversation with her. She took an interest in my nephew and she would always look for his name or a picture in the paper. We shared a lot and I will miss her stories. I look over at her desk and think of conversation we have had. She was a blessing to so many. May God be with the family today and always.

I am very sadden to hear that Carol passed away. It is weird to type Carol, I knew Carol as a teacher at Wentworth, so I always referenced her as "MRS" I last saw her at the "big" reunion and we had such fun chatting and laughing about the Good Ole Days. She was a fun, loving teacher and the world has lost a true angel. To her family, my thoughts and prayers are with you. - Pam Wray Martin

This hurts my heart so much. Carol arrived at Wentworth High School at just the right time for me. Besides being my English teacher, we did three plays together. And she wasn't just a teacher, she was a friend to me. My life would have been a sadder place without her. I last saw her at a multiclass Wentworth reunion. I'm so happy I was able to have that time with her and her husband. God speed Carol and much love. Prayers for all your loved ones.
