“ I can remember going over to the Rowleys when I was in sixth grade to hang out with Jason over at their old house on James Street in Belvedere. Even though Chris was older, he always hung out with me and J-Row whether that was playing video games or playing football out in the backyard. My best memory that I recall was the first Georgia game I went to with their family. We went early and tailgated and played football in the O'malleys parking lot. It was me, Jimmy, Chris and Jason on team versus some other random people. All of us were so competitive and wanted to win even though it was just a fun pick-up game. I was always close to Jason growing up and just knew Chris through him. What I did know about Chris was that he was such a caring person who had passion for what he believed in. From what I could see, he was close with Christ and had great religious views. Thats something very admirable and important. I know he is in heaven now looking over us all with no more worries. RIP Christopher Rowley!

“ Chris always was a warm person. I remember when I was pregnant with my oldest girl he rubbed my belly all the time :) Him and his family had one of the best diaper parties for me when I was pregnant with Jamie! He helped my family out by giving us a stroller, baby tub, and so much more! He'd give you the shirt off his back if it meant helping someone else. Although its been awhile since I've seen him and family, I've always felt like they were my family! The world lost a gentle soul, but God gained a real soldier! Chris would go to boot for anyone whom needed him and for that he was a special kinda person... You know one that is a diamond in the rough!

“ Still in shock over everything. Having a family with small children we haven't been out in a while. But it never failed, we always saw good all Crispy at the EZ stop. I just regret being in a hurry when we seen you the other day and not saying hey. Although we haven't gotten to see or talk to you and Jason much recently, we will always consider y'all friends. Both of y'all are some of the only people I know that would actually stop what your doing (for you in the middle of a tattoo) to go help out friends.. Even if you didn't see them often. I know you were a great person. Your mom raised two amazing sons, and although I know she will carry this pain with her, I hope She is at peace knowing you are in heaven and seeing from everyone what a wonderful guy you were not just to family, but every person you met. We will all love and miss you, but we will see you again someday. Rip crispy

“Gone, but NEVER forgotten!! You were my best friend, my whole family loved you, especially my 3 girls!! Shoot, anyone who ever come across your path couldn't help but fall in love with your big ole teddy bear self. You always knew the right things to say or do to make the crappiest of days turn into the best of days. You will always be my "stupid!" And I'll always remain yours!! You are loved by so, so many & it's a terrible shame this Earth is now missing a beyond wonderful, amazing, loving, caring, heart warming father, son, brother, uncle, & friend!! But forever you will live on through us! #IamChrisRowley
