“ As a class mate of Jeff's in Bradford, I'll always remember the fantastic stories and screen plays he would right. I think he came up with star wars before George Lucas did. R.I.P. Jeff. "Darrell"

“ You are the best dad I could ever have. You never looked down on me when I was at my lowest. You were there to pick me up every time I fell, with no shame in your eyes. Told me how proud you were when I finally stood on my own. You were the father my daughters needed. The best man I've ever known. We will always be together. I love you daddy and miss you so much.

“ Tyler and I are very sad to hear the news of Jeff's passing. It was very interesting to learn about the way to know if one of the books you may have was valuable or not. It was fun to go with him to an auction and the neat stuff we got.
Our thoughts and prayers go out to Babe and their kids.

“ Papa would always just be doin his own little thing. Other than that was outside playing in his garden or his green house. Or playing plant vs zombie on his computer. I remember sitting there watching him play. I remember watching him and gammy's shows while we were all sitting on the couch. I remember how he would yell at the TV when the chemicals came on. Or how he would yell during jeopardy. How he would yell for Cassidy and Maddy to come rub his feet. Or say "honey" to gammy. He loved gammy so much. I'll miss you everyday. I love you papa.

“ it seems kind of corny. but i have endless memories. We all know that i was a papas girl. papa stepped up. he raised maddy and I. taught us everything we know. i remember when he came home from the hospital and i asked him if he was going to fight. he said he would. for his girls he told me he remembers us taking walks everyday. i remember him using his walking stick to draw E.T. in the sand. he always did it so effortlessly. i remember him being the one to get me and my sister up for school. he did our hair although he burned us with his cigarette nearly every time. i remember our trip to riverbank zoo. i remember when he'd always yell at me to make zebra noises or when he'd tell me to catch his booger and flick them at me. he'd always make fun of me and ask me where my butt went. i could sit here for hours and just type away about how much i loved my papa and touch down on every last memory i have of him.
forever papas girl ☐
