“ I met John when I was working at Publix. I was a cashier there and he came through my line on day. I made a joke about him not forgetting the beer, the most important thing of all. From that time on he always came through my line if he saw me. He really was a kind and generous man. He would often talk of his love of photography and his work at the golden harvest food bank. I was lucky enough to see some of his amazing photos. He may have been a grumpy old man, but he was also a wonderful man. He will be missed.

“ My dad was a strong willed man. Fiercely independent he didn't accept help well, but boy he would do anything for anybody. He volunteered at The Golden Harvest Food Bank and was heavily involved with the local arts scene in the region. He often exhibited at The Arts & Heritage Center. Friends knew the goofy side he hid under his seriousness. He had a love of art, nature, wildlife and great friendships. I'll surely miss him❤️
