Cam words on FaceBook say it all:

Some people never give up - their bodies just give out. They never stop believing that they can overcome their life's obstacle. They fight for not only themselves but for the people around them. In my opinion these people are heroes and should be recognized for just that.

“ Sonita- I am so sorry about John- I know your heart is aching. I pray that peace will one day be with you. Praying for you all. Cindy wanted me to share with you what I wrote on the wall of the FB site "Praying for Tim McNeill and John Redmond"....love you my sweet friend...

" As many may have heard by now...John is now pain free and strong in the arms of our Father in heaven....I am sure one of the very first to greet him there was Tim McNeill. It is hard to believe that all of this has happened to these two men...and their families in just a few short years...but it has....and our hearts ...aches. Please continue to offer your prayers for the wives of these men, Cindy and Sonita...they are fighters themselves...and their children who are each branching towards adulthood. The saying "better to have loved and lost than to never have loved at all" is bittersweet....but so true as witnessed by us all in these men and their lives....not one who knew them will ever be the same for they are, and will forever be, men among men and warriors who stood steadfast in the fight against this horrible disease that has taken them physically from us all on this earth. May God hold each of them...and you all...in the palm of His hands:)"
