“ Although I don't know your family or your special little girl, I just wanted you to know that I've been where you are now. It is only through the Grace of God and the support of your good friends and family that you can go on in the days, months and years to come. There is no time limit on grieving, so grieve in whatever way you need to and when you feel you need to. You never get over this you just have to accept it and take it one day at a time. My heart and prayers truly go out to each of you and this is just a very sad situation. She certainly was a cute little girl. God Bless each of you. Remember to stay close and lean on one another.

We both began praying for all of you then. Our Lord promises He will never leave us or forsake us and I have seen in over 25 years in EMS that He keeps His promise to us. I know He was with Kristen in that ambulance on Saturday evening and I know He will comfort all of you. Even though we do not know you, we will keep all of you close in our hearts and prayers.*
