““Cousin” Martha was a very special caring person. We remember visits with her with fondness, she always warmly welcomed us into her home.

Our dad, was Harvey Wilson, his mother was Sara Elizabeth Moody (Wilson) and that made him Marthas cousin. Our mom, Laura Trowbridge Wilson, considered Martha a dear friend. Our parents thought the world of their cousin and friend.

Martha demonstrated her thoughtful and generous nature by driving the 3 plus hours to be a comfort to mom when dad passed away in 2003 and Martha returned 11 weeks later to be with us “kids” when mom also passed away.

We all greatly appreciated her.

Our thoughts and prayers are with you all.

“ Today I thought of you and the time you and Grandma I went to Captain D's. It must have been some kind of all you can eat special. You brought a large purse and a couple of gallon size zip lock bags. Those people working there must have thought we were really hungry. I'm sure we ordered at least 4 refills before we left. Way to get your monies worth Aunt Martha.

I think I remember conversations about this economy tip. "Scoundrel" is a Martha word from my past. Momma and Martha were not afraid to work the system. It was something of a sport for the old broads.

“ I have so many things I could say about my mom, but the one thing that stands out is one of her favorite sayings. I would ask mom, "how are you?" and she always would reply with "Fine as Frogs Hair!" I will miss hearing her say that, so I guess it is my job now. Mom I'm not "fine as frogs hair" right now ,but I know one day it will all be alright. I will always love you and will NEVER EVER forget you! I will keep your memory alive through Benjamin, I promise.

“ My sisters and I all loved it when every Christmas Eve, Aunt Martha would call without fail to say, "Tonight is the night to go to sleep!" Her sister Clare had said that when they were little girls and it's been a family tradition ever since!

“ A "regulation breakfast" is what she called her normal morning feeding of all her kids. Bacon, eggs & cheese grits. Damn, I'm gonna miss those cheese grits. We ate this from the time we could walk, throughout childhood & even when we were grown adults shaking off a hangover - it was the perfect cure. I'll miss Mom!

and the bacon and eggs were cooked in the cast iron skillet and if you got the burnt pieces from the bacon, you got the best of the eggs. I loved having breakfast in your household.

Cheese grits, yum! With a side of sausage and 2 over medium. I have a breakfast meeting scheduled already...

That's all bad for the heart, but good for the soul.

I remember those cheese grits...after every visit I'd ask our mom to make those too.

Lots of fun memories of Aunt Martha as a child. My last memory of Martha was when she came to take Grandma Harris down to live with her in Augusta for the last part of her life. Martha was such an amazingly generous, warm woman. She cared for so many people.

“ My Aunt Martha loved us all as her own and she encouraged us to always do the right thing. She wanted us to love one another and not bicker over the small stuff. My weekends and most of summer days were spent in her home where she showed how to love and care for each other.

My children loved to visit her and if we called in advance, they were treated with her famous butterfly tarts. Most of the time, we would find her in the kitchen cooking or just watching the double boiler keeping something warm.

The last time I saw her, my treat to her was homemade buttermilk biscuits. When asked if she wanted another batch made at lunch time, she said yes, and asked if it was time for lunch.

I will never forget that beautiful lady or any of my memories. I will love her forever and await the time I will see her again. I know she is laughing with my Mama and Daddy in heaven.

“ Martha Harris was a saint sent from the heavens. She was a great person that touched many lives. She will be missed by all who had a chance to come in contact with her. She is in a better place and if I know one thing about her. She is serving up her famous banana pudding for all to enjoy in heaven. Love you Mrs. "H"

“ My Aunt Martha was my second mother. There are few memories in which she is not included. My best memory was whenever she walked into our house whichever child she saw first, it was always a gentle pinch on the cheek and her saying, "My favorite niece/nephew." I was always got a charge out of it when I happened to be the first child she saw. I will always remember her and will always love her.
