Sending my thoughts and prayers. Michael and his family have always meant the world to me and I wish I could have attended his memorial today but I live in Orlando FL and couldn't make it. Him and I were high school sweethearts and we kept in touch through Facebook. He was a very genuine, sincere person that I'm going to miss. May he rest in peace.

“ I moved up here from Ft. Lauderdale, Fl in 1989. My exhusband, then boyfriend, Devin Davenport took me around to introduce me to his friends and show me around town. We went to a home, Michael's parents house, and out pop's this guy looking like he'd just jumped off his surfboard and would have a California accent.....Then in an obviously SOUTHERN tone he smiles really beautiful blindingly white smile and says " Hey y'all! What you know good,man? Dayyymn Dev! Whatchu got there?" I lost it. Started laughing so hard I thought my ribs would break! !

Oblivious to what I've found so funny.....I said "Catch any gnarly waves, bra?" Then we're all laughing and he said naw, boards put up but he'd get out again in a couple weeks. Florence. But that's how I met the man whose only friends invited to his small intimate wedding to my closest friend by then, Denise Baldwin, we're Devin and I. We'd become family with all the ups and downs that goes along with being so close.

It's rare to get the opportunity to make immediate friends and even more rare to become so close that no matter the time and space that separates us in life, you're going to feel as if no time has passed and your reunion isn't awkward or strange like having to meet again for the first time.

I'm looking forward to our reunion when I am called home. Michael will definitely be there to greet me along with my brother, Colin. Another friend of Michael's. Thanks for letting me share this, I hope his mom has peace knowing he was raised right , he was respectful and polite, generous and kind. You're son was loved very much by so many. And that's what "good raisins" results. God Bless

Love,
