“Skip” and Ginger,

You won't remember me, but I rented the little white house next door to your parents for 10 years back in the early 1980's. Your dad was the "caretaker" of the property for a gentleman in Atlanta. Your parents were so wonderful to me. I was single at the time, floundering in life, but they were always encouraging & concerned with a smile on their faces.

They had me over for dinner and many discussions about world events. I remember they always had Perry Mason on during lunchtime and "Sam" had a nip of scotch (that he pretended to hide from your mom) while he was outside closing up the fence to the back yard in the late afternoons.

I'm sorry I couldn't attend the graveside service to speak to you, but I attended the church service and can honestly say it was so moving, intimate and personal. I felt your mother's presence there. I know the two of them are having an amazing reunion in heaven! They were both incredibly amazing, intelligent, God-sent individuals.

“ I remember afternoons spent in the kitchen working on our cooking badge for Girl Scouts. She was so patient. She laughed with us and listened to us when we talked. Remember the luncheon she and Mother let us have when we graduated high school-we thought we were so grown up. She never forgot any of us. She was a gentle person with a sweet smile and she will be missed. Mother and I will keep you all in our prayers.
